Don't Tell Me the Boy Was Mad

Dir. Robert Guédiguian, 2015, 134 mins

Since our previous film was such a hit, we're following up with another film by Armenian-French director Robert Guédiguian.

In the 80s Aram, a young French Armenian, blows up the Turkish ambassador's car in Paris. A young cyclist passing by is seriously injured. Now on the run, Aram joins the Armenian Liberation Army in Beirut. After Aram's mother visits the injured man in hospital and begs his forgiveness, an unexpected relationship and story develops ... This film is both heart-breaking and uplifting.
